Systemic Layal Liverpool,2024-06-18 In the spirit of Medical Apartheid and Killing the Black Body A science based data driven and global exploration of racial disparities in health care access by virologist immunologist and science journalist Layal Liverpool Layal Liverpool spent years as a teen bouncing from doctor to doctor each one failing to diagnose her dermatological complaint Just when she d grown used to the idea that she had an extremely rare and untreatable skin condition one dermatologist after a quick exam told her that she had a classic and common case of eczema and explained that it often appears differently on darker skin Her experience stuck with her making her wonder whether other medical conditions might be going undiagnosed in darker skinned people and whether racism could in fact make people sick The pandemic taught us that diseases like Covid disproportionately affect people of color Here Liverpool goes a step further to show that this disparity exists for all types of illness and that it is caused by racism In Systemic Liverpool shares her journey to show how racism woven into our societies as well as into the structures of medicine and science is harmful to our health Refuting the false belief that there are biological differences between races Liverpool goes on to show that racism related stress and trauma can however lead to biological changes that make people of color more vulnerable to illness debunking the myth of illness as the great equalizer From the problem of racial bias in medicine where the default human subject is white to the dangerous health consequences of systemic racism from the physical and psychological effects of daily microaggressions to intergenerational trauma and data gaps Liverpool reveals the fatal stereotypes that keep people of color undiagnosed untreated and unsafe and tells us what we can do about it
